MIXED COMPANY SEMINARS

These residential courses, held in specially selected hotels throughout the country, are designed to provide real practical help in assisting employees and their partners make the transition from full-time work towards retirement, recognising that many nowadays are unsure as to whether they can afford/want to stop working.

Social distancing will be maintained, throughout the course, in a Covid secure environment.

The style of our courses is informal and conversational. Co-ordinated by our full-time Facilitators, supported by a team of specialist presenters. We aim to make the seminars informative, stimulating and, most importantly enjoyable.

Because we have no connection nor allegiance to anyone in the finance services industry no products or services will be sold. Our aim is to provide attendees with the necessary information to enable them to make informed choices concerning their future. Sessions are flexible. A participative approach is adopted so that the needs of each delegate are met.

The price of these non-executive open seminars is £480 per delegate (£430 Partner)

This provides for the two day programme, overnight accommodation, meals, refreshments and a pdf of our comprehensive information manual.

The Lake District seminar fee is £645 per delegate and £595 partner. This includes 2 night's accommodation, programme, meals and pdf our information manual.

In addition a non-residential seminar will be held in London, March and December

The fee of £385 per delegate £335 (partner) provides for the two day programme, lunches, refreshments plus pdf of manual.

All prices exclude VAT
